OVERVIEW

Mossé Security's Advanced Product Evaluation Penetration Testing (APEPT) service is crucially instrumental in providing critical security information to organisations considering new solutions. The detailed product assessment information we provide is a pivotal to sage decision-making regarding any new software solution under consideration. Our service is viable for any products being considered and applicable throughout any area of the organisation.

Our Certified Consultants complete in-depth testing on the proposed products to discover any possible, undisclosed vulnerabilities. Our APEPT results provide your organisation with a fully comprehensive picture of the security settings implemented within the products. Furthermore, we also give you the layout of how these could impact your business if the said solution product is implemented.

Mossé Security delivers a comprehensive report with conclusive explanations regarding our recommendations on the Product Evaluation.
